DIRECTORS OF PUMPKIN SHOW MAKE CHANGES

L. J. Johnson Succeeds Fred Nicholas As Director of Fancy Work Show.

NEW PREMIUMS

Flowers Under Dr. Bales To Be Out-of-Doors.

Lawrence J. Johnson, S. Pickaway-st., has accepted the appointment of supervisor of Dept. 6 of the Circleville Pumpkin Show succeeding Fred R. Nicholas, S. Pickaway-st., resigned. This announcement was made Thursday by E. C. Friece, secretary of the Pumpkin Show committee.

Nicholas has been director for several years but decided that with his other duties he does not have the necessary time required by the position. Johnson will be in charge of fancy work, painting, art and china display. A new section has been added to this department, the flower show, which annually attracts much attention. Dr. Ben Bales has been named as chairman of this division.

The department of fancy work this year promises to be one of the best ever offered at a Pumpkin Show. This display will be placed on the ground floor of the Brunner building in W. Main-st. in the room formerly occupied by the American Railway Express Co. Last year the fancy work, with the flower show, was on the third floor of the Knights of Pythias building. Many residents of the city and county expressed their desire to see the show but did not want to walk up two flights of stairs to see it.

FLOWERS ON MAIN-ST.
The flower show under Dr. Bales will be held in the open air with W. Main-st. as the scene for this attractive display. Tables will be placed in W. Main-st. in front of the Fickard drug store and will go as far as Scioto-st. A canvas will be placed over the flowers. The Knights of Pythias hall was also the scene of the flower show in 1929.

Announcement was made by Friece that a list of premiums will be awarded in a melon display under the direction of Robert L. Brehmer.

Previously premiums have been given only for pumpkin displays but with the drought taking its toll and reducing the size of Pickaway-co's famous pumpkins, it was decided by the directors to make awards in the melon displays. Watermelons and cantaloupes have been finer in the county this summer than in several years.

The Pumpkin Show will be held from Oct. 22 through Oct. 25. Directors of all the departments are lining up their entries and, although some have voiced opposition to the show because of conditions in the county, the exposition promises to be just as the motto says, "Bigger and Better than Ever."

JACKSON, O., Sept. 11.—A big thick story book which she was fondling and holding up in front of her so that her uncle might admire it, today had preserved the life of little Dorothy Hutton, aged 3. The book, however, prevented the lead pellets from entering the child's body. She escaped with a lacerated right hand which some of the shots entered.

BABY PLAYING WITH SISTER DRINKS ACID

Three-Year-Old Child of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Davis In Critical Condition.

TAKEN TO DOCTOR

Badly Burned Before Mother Reaches Her Side.

Helen, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Davis, is in a serious condition at the home of her parents on the Valentine farm in Circleville-twp., suffering from burns received when she accidentally drank a small quantity of carbolic acid while playing at her home Thursday at 10:30 a. m.

The child's condition is critical, according to Dr. A. W. Holman, to whose office the child was rushed by her mother and Mrs. Clarence Waite, a neighbor. He administered antidotes in an effort to relieve the effect of the burns.

Little Helen and a five-year-old sister were playing on the floor of the kitchen of the Davis home with a number of bottles. When she saw one bottle had a quantity of liquid in it she removed the cork and raised it to her lips. The quantity of carbolic acid she swallowed cannot be determined, according to Dr. Holman. Some of the contents of the two-ounce bottle were spilled on the floor.

As soon as the acid touched her mouth the child screamed, attracting her mother, who was in another room. She hurried to the kitchen and then called Mrs. Waite who lives nearby. The little girl, in a semi-conscious condition, was rushed to Dr. Holman's office. After treatment the child was returned to her home.

"A European federation is not mystic but logical," he declared. "It's ridiculous, too, to suppose that such a federation should be directed against the United States of America, because I have too much respect for that great country."

Kills Brother, Ends Own Life

NEW LEXINGTON, O., Sept. 11.—Two brothers, both miners, are dead today as the result of a family argument which culminated in a murder and suicide. The victims were Sam Gross, 42, and Ben Gross, 40, both of Skinner Ridge, four miles south of New Lexington.

The murder-suicide occurred late yesterday at the home of the mother, Mrs. Sarah Gross.

Sam, according to reports, went to his mother's home after his wife, Mrs. Lulu Gross, 36, had deserted him and his four children by a former marriage. Sam told his mother and brother, who was living there with his family, that he was going to "move in." Ben objected and an argument ensued.

The older brother then went to his home a short distance from there and returned a short time later with a shotgun. He shot his brother four times and then turned the weapon on himself. Ben died a few minutes later and Sam killed himself almost instantly with a bullet through the head.

Authorities investigated the shooting and returned a verdict of murder-suicide. No one was arrested.

CANADA WILL RUSH TARIFF LEGISLATION

New Government To Push Through Program of Great Importance To U. S.

180,000 ARE IDLE

20 Millions to be Appropriated For Unemployment Relief.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 11.—Safely barricaded behind the greatest parliamentary majority and Canadian government has enjoyed since the war, the new Bennett conservative ministry drove decisively ahead today with its program of economic rehabilitation—a program of incalculable importance to American business.

The next 48 hours probably will see the outright appropriation of $20,000,000 for unemployment relief, a not inconsiderable sum for any government, and for Canada an unprecedented governmental undertaking.

Thereafter, the parliament will speedily shove through emergency legislation designed to stop the "dumping" of foreign goods, including American, into Canada, and follow that action up with the enactment of permanently higher tariff barriers that inevitably will cost American business many millions of dollars a year.

"NOT DIRECTED TO U. S."
Very sedulously, the Canadians explain to American visitors that the action of their new government is not directed toward the United States. Of course, the United States may suffer, because Canada is America's best customer. It is regrettable, they say, but unavoidable, Canada must look after Canada, and there is at present an unemployment problem in the Dominion that is graver by far than that existing in the states.

The enactment by the American congress of the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill, imposing many new, high and onerous rates on Canadian products, is, they assert, only incidental to the problem as a whole.

"It is a condition, not a theory that we confront," exclaimed Prime Minister Richard B. Bennett, in addressing parliament and referring to the Canadian unemployment situation.

In eight of the eleven provinces in the dominion, he said, the figures showed that approximately 180,000 men were now out of work with the expectation that this number would exceed 200,000 before the winter is well advanced. The total population of Canada is only a little more than 9,000,000 so that in the neighborhood of 10 percent of Canadian workmen are now jobless.

Unemployment in the United States has never been estimated at more than 4 percent.

The new government is not going to have unopposed sailing in its program of trying to rehabilitate the country by "striking back" at the American congress on tariff rates.

This has been demonstrated by three days of debate during this unprecedented session. The ex-premier, W. L. Mackenzie-King, is now the leader of the opposition, and although sadly outnumbered, he has repeatedly served notice that his Liberal followers do not intend to swallow the new government's measures.

King has strenuously objected to Bennett's assuming the responsibility of minister of finance and minister of external affairs, which correspond to the minister of foreign affairs in most governments.

"Canada," thundered King, in one of his replies to Bennett, "desires neither the dictatorship of a Mussolini nor the comic opera role of a pooh-bah."

DEFENDS ACTS OF SOLONS IN KEYNOTE TALK

Senior Ohio Senator Characterizes Cooper As Great Business Governor.

OPENS SESSION

Governor and McCulloch Endorse Dry Law.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 11.—Eulogizing the administration of President Hoover, defending recent acts of Congress and characterizing Governor Myers Y. Cooper as "a great business governor," United States Senator Simon D. Fess, of Ohio, delivered the "key-note" address at the initial session of the Republican state platform convention here this afternoon.

Unqualified declarations in support of the dry cause were voiced by Governor Cooper and by United States Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch who addressed the delegates today.

Cooper reviewed the results of his administration of the state government during the past 30 months and told of plans for improvement of conditions in the Buckeye state if he is re-elected. He registered opposition to any further increase of the state property tax and favored a reduction of the general property tax "for the relief of the farmer, small business owner and the protection of industry in general."

McCulloch defended his acts in the recent session of Congress, including his support of the tariff act, and the opposition of Judge Parker for chief justice of the United States supreme court.

FRESH VICTORY
Designating the administration of Hoover and Cooper as "great records of accomplishment," he predicted that "the Republicans of Ohio will win an overwhelming victory at the polls in November."

"Our national leadership has been nobly seconded in our state through our governor, whose genius for constructive administration marks him as a great business governor," said Senator Fess.

Fess declared that Governor Cooper's first term "gives him a high rank among the greatest of our governors."

Reviewing acts of the administration of President Hoover, Fess asserted that "our platform pledges at Kansas City to enact farm relief legislation and to revise the tariff, both in the interest of the farmer and those industries crippled by foreign competition, were fulfilled without delay, both in letter and spirit."

DEFENDS TARIFF

Defending the new tariff act, Fess said that "the talk of retaliation of foreign countries" is stimulated by opposition "arising from those Americans who invest their capital in the establishment of plants in foreign countries." The acts of these Americans, he said, are "purely selfish and will not be excused by the American people." He said that the cost of living has decreased from four to six per cent since the new tariff law became effective.

Efforts of President Hoover to alleviate conditions resulting from business depression and unemployment were cited by Senator Fess. He referred among other things, to "drastic executive measures taken to guard against such immigration as may aggravate the unemployment situation."

"The president's methods of relief work are fully displayed in the manner in which he is dealing with the drought situation," continued Fess. He told of plans of the national administration for enlargement of the federal highway system, cheaper transportation for agriculture, public improvements, aid for disabled soldiers, and "progressive reduction of tax burdens."

Asserting that "the London naval pact will stand out as a notable service toward the peace of the world," he estimated that the pact will result in a saving of $1,000,000,000.

L. J. Johnson Succeeds Fred Nicholas As Director of Fancy Work Show.

Flowers Under Dr. Bales To Be Out-of-Doors.

Lawrence J. Johnson, S. Pickaway-st., has accepted the appointment of supervisor of Dept. 6 of the Circleville Pumpkin Show succeeding Fred R. Nicholas, S. Pickaway-st., resigned. This announcement was made Thursday by E. C. Friece, secretary of the Pumpkin Show committee.

Nicholas has been director for several years but decided that with his other duties he does not have the necessary time required by the position. Johnson will be in charge of fancy work, painting, art and china display. A new section has been added to this department, the flower show, which annually attracts much attention. Dr. Elen Bales has been named as chairman of this division.

The department of fancy work this year promises to be one of the best ever offered at a Pumpkin Show. This display will be placed on the ground floor of the Brunner building in W. Main-st. in the room formerly occupied by the American Railway Express Co. Last year the fancy work, with the flower show, was on the third floor of the Knights of Pythias building. Many residents of the city and county expressed their desire to see the show but did not want to walk up two flights of stairs to see it.

FLOWERS ON MAIN-ST.
The flower show under Dr. Bales will be held in the open air with W. Main-st. as the scene for this attractive display. Tables will be placed in W. Main-st. in front of the Fickard drug store and will go as far as Scioto-st. A canvass will be placed over the flowers. The Knights of Pythias hall was also the scene of the flower show in 1929.

Announcement was made by Friece that a list of premiums will be awarded in a melon display under the direction of Robert L. Brehmer.

Previously premiums have been given only for pumpkin displays but with the drought taking its toll and reducing the size of Pickaway-co's famous pumpkins, it was decided by the directors to make awards in the melon displays. Watermelons and cantaloupes have been finer in the county this summer than in several years.

The Pumpkin Show will be held from Oct. 22 through Oct. 25. Directors of all the departments are lining up their entries and, although some have voiced opposition to the show because of conditions in the county, the exposition promises to be just as the motto says, "Bigger and Better than Ever."

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 11.—Safely barricaded behind the greatest parliamentary majority and Canadian government has enjoyed since the war, the new Bennett conservative ministry drove decisively ahead today with its program of economic rehabilitation—a program of incalculable importance to American business.

The next 48 hours probably will see the outright appropriation of $20,000,000 for unemployment relief, a not inconsiderable sum for any government, and for Canada an unprecedented governmental undertaking.

Thereafter, the parliament will speedily shove through emergency legislation designed to stop the "dumping" of foreign goods, including American, into Canada, and follow that action up with the enactment of permanently higher tariff barriers that inevitably will cost American business many millions of dollars a year.

"NOT DIRECTED TO U. S."

Very sedulously, the Canadians explain to American visitors that the action of their new government is not directed toward the United States. Of course, the United States may suffer, because Canada is America's best customer. It is regrettable, they say, but unavoidable, Canada must look after Canada, and there is at present an employment problem in the Dominion that is graver by far than that existing in the states.

The enactment by the American congress of the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill, imposing many new, high and onerous rates on Canadian products, is, they assert, only incidental to the problem as a whole.

"It is a condition, not a theory that we confront," exclaimed Prime Minister Richard B. Bennett, in addressing parliament and referring to the Canadian unemployment situation.

180,000 ARE IDLE

In light of the eleven provinces in the dominion, he said, the figures showed that approximately 180,000 men were now out of work with the expectation that this number would exceed 200,000 before the winter is well advanced. The total population of Canada is only a little more than 9,000,000 so that in the neighborhood of 10 percent of Canadian workmen are now jobless.

Unemployment in the United States has never been estimated at more than 4 percent.

The new government is not going to have unopposed sailing in its program of trying to rehabilitate the country by "striking back" at the American congress on tariff rates.

This has been demonstrated by three days of debate during this unprecedented special session. The ex-prime minister, W. L. Mackenzie-King, is now the leader of the opposition, and although sadly outnumbered, he has repeatedly served notice that his Liberal followers do not intend to swallow the new government's measures.

King has strenuously objected to Bennett's assuming the responsibility he has in the new government. Bennett, in addition to the portfolios of minister of finance and minister of external affairs, which correspond to the minister of foreign affairs in most governments.

"Canada," thundered King, in one of his replies to Bennett, "desires neither the dictatorship of a Mussolini nor this comic opera role of a pooh-bah."

DEFENDS ACTS OF SOLONS IN KEYNOTE TALK

Senior Ohio Senator Characterizes Cooper As Great Business Governor.

Governor and McCulloch Endorse Dry Law.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 11.—Eulogizing the administration of President Hoover, defending recent acts of Congress and characterizing Governor Myers Y. Cooper as "a great business governor," United States Senator Simon D. Fess, of Ohio, delivered the "key-note" address at the initial session of the Republican state platform convention here this afternoon.

Unequivocal declarations in support of the dry cause were voiced by Governor Cooper and by United States Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch who addressed the delegates today.

Cooper reviewed the results of his administration of the state government during the past 20 months and told of plans for improvement of conditions in the Buckeye state if he is re-elected. He registered opposition to any further increase of the state gasoline and favored a reduction of the general property tax "for the relief of the farmer, small home owner and the protection of industry in general."

McCulloch defended his acts in the recent session of Congress, including his support of the new tariff act and the nomination of Judge Parker for chief justice of the United States supreme court.

PREDICT VICTORY

Designating the administration of Hoover and Cooper as "great records of accomplishment," he predicted that "the Republicans of Ohio will win an overwhelming victory at the polls in November."

"Our national leadership has been nobly seconded in our state through our governor, whose genius for constructive administration marks him as a great business governor," said Senator Fess.

Fess declared that Governor Cooper's first term "gives him a high rank among the greatest of our governors."

Reviewing acts of the administration of President Hoover, Fess asserted that "our platform pledged at Kansas City to enact farm relief legislation and to revise the tariff, both in the interest of the farmer and those industries crippled by foreign competition, were fulfilled without delay, both in letter and spirit."

DEFENDS TARIFF

Defending the new tariff act, Fess said that "the talk of retaliation of foreign countries" is stimulated by opposition "arising from those Americans who invest their capital in the establishment of plants in foreign countries." The acts of these Americans, he said, are "purely selfish and will not be excused by the American people." He said that the cost of living has decreased from four to six percent since the new tariff law became effective.

Efforts of President Hoover to alleviate conditions resulting from business depression and unemployment were cited by Senator Fess. He referred among other things, to "drastic executive measures taken to guard against such immigration as may aggravate the unemployment situation."

"The president's methods of relief work are fully displayed in the manner in which he is dealing with the drought situation," continued Fess. He told of plans of the national administration for enlargement of the federal highway system, cheaper transportation for agriculture, public improvements, aid for disabled soldiers, and "progressive reduction of tax burdens."

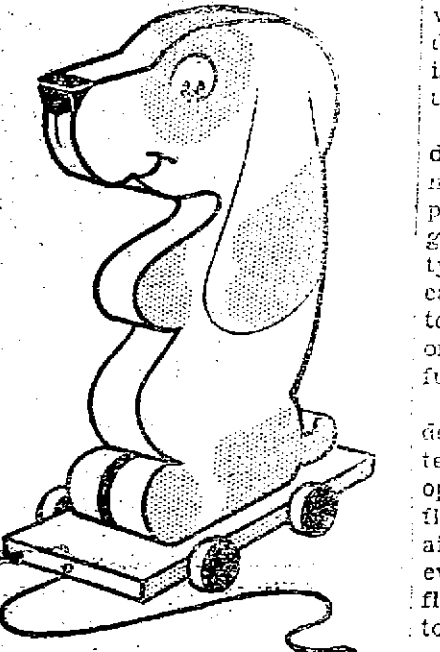

Asserting that "the London naval pact will stand out as a notable service toward the peace of the world," he estimated that the pact will result in a saving of $1,000,000,000.

STABBER HELD

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 11.—Jack Baehr, stepson of Harry Schroer, Cincinnati city official, was arrested today, being charged with stabbing Schroer during a family quarrel. Schroer was reported dying from the wound, which was inflicted by an ice-pick.

900,000,000 in taxes by decreasing the nation's building program.
Fess stated that the Hoover administration has "reorganized the governmental machinery, and appointed the highest available personnel to insure greater efficiency in the administration and enforcement of law by the appointment of a commission for the study and recommendations for better means of enforcing the eighteenth amendment and all other laws, and the reorganization of the financial machinery of the country."
The convention held in the ballroom of the Buckeye Hotel here, opened at 5 p. m. The delegates were called to order by Director of Commerce Edward D. Schorn, chairman of the Republican state central committee.
Schorn introduced Senator Fess who, besides delivering the "key-note" address, served as temporary chairman. Governor Cooper's speech followed that of Fess. Then came Senator McCulloch.
Appointment of various standing committees, including those on resolutions (platform), credentials and permanent organizations, was made at today's session. Prior to the opening of the convention, delegates held congressional district caucuses and selected members of the standing committees.
TO NAME PLATFORM
The platform, which will be adopted at a session Friday forenoon, is expected to embody planks favoring prohibition, and the views of Governor Cooper on taxation

REPEAL STAND CAUSES ACTION

Roosevelt's Announcement For Prohibition Ouster Brings Comment.
NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Governor Franklin Roosevelt's declaration for repeal of the Eighteenth amendment, and his comment thereon, has caused action to be taken by the prohibitionists.
Generally the Governor's stand was endorsed by the pro-tem leadership, while Roosevelt said it added to the cause. Prohibitionists said the declaration would bring them votes and Republican anti-prohibitionists said the pro-tem stand would bring them votes.
In his declaration the Governor said he favored repeal of the amendment by the passage of a simple majority amendment that would restore control of liquor to the various states while strictly prohibiting the opening of saloons. His position was stated in a letter to U. S. Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York.
West Republicans were pleased with the statement, especially, they said, because it would hasten a similar declaration from Charles H. Tuttle, regarded as the outstanding Republican contender for the gubernatorial nomination. They said, "the action of the Governor would show that naming of a Republican candidate opposed to prohibition would now be impracticable."
Tuttle, who is now United States attorney, has as yet refrained from discussing either politics or prohibition.

FILIPINOS DIE IN RAIL CRASH

Sedan Driven Onto Tracks In Front of Crack Southern Pacific Train.

SALINAS, Cal., Sept. 11.—Seven Filipinos were killed today when their automobile was struck by the north-bound Southern Pacific train. The Constar, in a spectacular grade-crossing crash two miles east of here.

Passengers on the train, many of them asleep, were shaken violently by the impact. The train, traveling 40 miles an hour, was enroute from Los Angeles to San Francisco.

The weather was foggy. According to Engineer W. H. Thompson, the automobile, a sedan was driven directly on the tracks in front of the speeding locomotive.

The seven Filipinos were enroute to work in a beet sugar plant at Soreciela, near here. A puppy in the machine escaped unharmed.

Wreckage of the machine was carried for nearly a quarter of a mile.

CIRCUS TO GIVE STREET PARADE

Gentry Brothers circus, which will exhibit in Circleville, Tuesday, Sept. 16, afternoon and night, is the largest motorized show in the world giving a street parade.

Promptly at 11 a. m. on circus day the street show, composed of more than 100 vehicles, scores of performers decked out in their gayest paraphernalia, and a variety of animals from all parts of the earth, will move through downtown streets to the accompaniment of several bands, and a troupe of funmaking clowns.

Superlatives are necessary to describe the beautiful array of fitted and decorated band wagons, open carriages, massive carved floats, festive music, and general air of festivity that surrounds this event. Motorization of the giant fleet was arranged by General Motors.

Realizing the parade is the first and one of the largest single features of the show, Gentry Brothers views its street display as one of its rights.

Officials here recently asserted the circus which fails to present a street parade fails in its obligation to the public, since the event has become, through years of use, a traditional portion of the gala day. This custom has been honored by the Gentry shows throughout their existence—more than half a century.

REPEAL STAND CAUSES ACTION

Roosevelt's Announcement For Prohibition Ouster Brings Comment.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Governor Franklin Roosevelt's declaration for repeal of the Eighteenth amendment caused wide comment throughout the state today.

Generally the Governor's stand was endorsed by Democratic leaders, while Republicans said it aided their cause. Republican dyes said the declaration would bring them votes and Republican anti-prohibitionists said his pre-repeal statement, either than one merely favoring modification of dry laws, was to their advantage.

In his declaration the Governor said he favored repeal of the amendment by the passage of a superceding amendment that would restore control of liquor to the various states while strictly prohibiting the opening of saloons. His position was voiced in a letter to U. S. Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York.

Yet Republicans were pleased with the statement especially, they said, because it would hasten a similar declaration from Charles H. Tuttle, regarded as the outstanding Republican contender for the gubernatorial nomination. They said, too, the action of the Governor would "show that naming of a Republican candidate opposed to prohibition" would now "be imperative."

Tuttle, who is now United States attorney, has as yet refrained from discussing either politics or prohibition.

Your order over the telephone will bring you a supply of GRENADIER COAL, and its first use will show you why hundreds of housekeepers in this city are getting from it a maximum of heat and comfort at a minimum of expense and effort.

In the first place, tests have proven that you get far more heat from less coal when you use GRENADIER. You need not be a mathematician to see that that means a material saving from each ton used. It also means far fewer trips to the furnace—another saving—a saving of time, energy and labor. Beyond doubt, GRENADIER is the most satisfactory coal you can use.

Football Season Begins Here Tomorrow

New Uniforms And Everything To Greet Fans

Although there are many who are unaware of the fact, Circleville high school's football season will open tomorrow afternoon on the local lot when Walnut-twp's gridders under Coach Griffith come to town.

And there ought to be a fine crowd out to greet the 1930 edition of the Red and Black football machine. If Old Jupiter Pluvius decides to withhold any rain that might be had in his clouds for at least another day, the Tigers are going to trot onto the S Court-st field decked out in brand new uniforms. Stripped like the bunch of Tigers their name implies, the high school warriors will go onto the gridiron after less than two weeks' practice to try to give the 1930 season an auspicious beginning, but, as it happens, Walnut-twp is going to have something to say about this fine start.

Little news has been coming from the Walnut camp where practices have been held regularly for the past two weeks. And although no news is supposed to be good news, it might not be so good in this case. Coach Griffith knows his stuff and with any kind of material at all will develop some kind of a grid machine.

Coach Herberholz has been working his men for the past week in a manner that would tire even an aggregation of grid veterans but every boy in uniform likes the way he has been worked and is trying like everything to make one of these choice 11 berths which a football team permits. Even Coach Herberholz does not know what his starting lineup will be.

Each evening he has a new lad at a new position seeing just what he can do, and in this experimenting he unearthed a griddier who may carry plenty of weight on his shoulders this year. That boy is Dunlap, who played guard last season. Dunlap came out to practice the first part of this week and after two nights of ground work and conditioning, pronounced himself ready to go.

Herberholz shifted him into the backfield, and such line crashing as this boy came through with in Wednesday's session was too bad.

When he hit the line there was a give someplace and it is entirely possible that when game time rolls around he will be in the backfield.

That's just a guess however for

CHINK GEORGE MEETS HURTZ

Bout at Eagles, Chillicothe, May Be Stepping-stone For Colored Lad.

Chink George, popular Chillicothe mitt-slinger, meets one tough lad Friday evening at Eagles' bowl, Chillicothe, in Ray Hertz, fast Cincinnati slugger. The fight may be either a maker or breaker for the fast Ross-co colored lad because if his showing against Hertz is impressive enough he will be matched with Lonnie Bowden of Huntington, W. Va.

Bowden is recognized as classy and a match with him would be a real feather in George's cap. And this scrapper knows it for he is working like he never worked before to get into shape for Hertz and reports from the Chillicothe camp have it that George is out for bear.

Eddie Townley meets George Barber of Portsmouth in the second feature go of the evening. Fast Black, a tough colored kid from Columbus, will meet Young Ballenger, Portsmouth, in another part of the show.

Ray Ward, Columbus, will referee the bouts and will be assisted by Ray Carpenter, Lancaster wrestler.

TIRES DEFEAT ASHVILLE '9'
Gordon Tires had too many guns for the Ashville recreation ball team Wednesday evening and when darkness fell over Utilities field the Tires had an edge of 5-2.

The game was permitted to go only six frames when darkness settled over the field.

Gordons scored two in the second and Ashville tied the count in the third. A triple by Charlie Stevens in the fifth with Steelen gave the Tires a margin which they held throughout.

Pood Oliver gave five hits and fanned six and Hoover for Ashville was touched safely seven times and fanned two.

In the other game of the evening played at Mason's the Pettit Snacks lost to South Bloomfield 7-0. Bloomfield had a good ball club while the Pettits played with only four of their regulars, it is reported.

NATIONAL RACE TIGHTENS AS CHICAGO AGAIN LOSES

Game Starts At High School Field at 3 O'clock Friday Afternoon; Herberholz Not Yet Decided On Starting Lineup; Walnut Unknown Quantity.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—The boy stood on the burning deck, which was getting hotter all the time, the water was very deep all around and he couldn't swim, anyway and besides he was practically out of peanuts—which was just about the critical situation today of the Chicago Cubs. They face disaster.

Senior Adolfo Luque tamed the stunned Chicago team, shutting out the powerful Bruns, 6 to 0, for the second day in a row, as the Robins, virtually tied with the Cardinals, moved to within a game and a half of the pennant perch. Chicago's murderers' row had their arms strapped to their sides and got only five hits off the Cuban veteran. Charlie Root, Cub ace, climbed the golden stairs in the first inning as the fighting Robins scored five runs. Herman and Wright each hit safely three times, the flock totaling 11 bingles. Manager Joe McCarthy is said to have great confidence in Root and with Sheriff Blake reported ill and Bob Osborn and Dud Teachtout being more or less second stringers, he may try Charlie again today. Vance or Moss may be the Robins' choice.

A lethal homer by Jim Bottomley with two playmates on the sacks in the eighth inning ruined the Giants, 5 to 3 and kept St. Louis shining brightly in second place. Freddie Fitzsimmons pitched one of those games that was not quite good enough, allowing only eight hits, while New York basked nine off Bell. New York is still in fourth place, three games behind the Cubs.

Tab this name—Frank Doljack, rookie from Wheeling, W. Va. He punched a homer with two on and Detroit horse-collared the A's, 1 to 0. Sorrell gave the champions only four safeties.

The Brownies moved back into berth No. 6 by downing the Senators with Ferrell spot-lighting hitting honors.

Ol' Tom Zachary would give the Pirates no more than four hits, Berger homered and the Braves chalked it, 5 to 0.

Sweetland and Collins combined to defeat the Reds 5 to 4 for Philadelphia.

Regan homered, clinching a 9 to 2 triumph for the Boston Sox over the Chicago Americans.

The great right arm of Ferrell, Cleveland hurler who has won 24 games, finally cracked and the Yankees rushed through to notch it, 7 to 2. Johnson was the winning hurler.

The fight tonight might end in a single punch. Either man is capable of landing it early. I think McLarnin's chances of doing that are the more favorable.

A lady who keeps canaries, and has studied them deeply, says they are great music-lovers. They love not only their own music, like some artists, but other people's. TRUST the kids to know an opportunity when they see it. Take this miniature golf business for example, which is making vacant town lots more productive than they used to be in war time when we were all growing vegetables to beat the Germans.

It's a beautiful course too. The hills are banked with green shrubs and there are hazards built of fragrant coffee cans. The girls are taking in as much as a dollar a day.

Lettuce and Beauty

FRENCH scientists have been saying for some time that lettuce is a most important vegetable in the first place, as it is declared, they were beautiful. Scientists attributed this fact to the lettuce and other vitamin-rich vegetables. "American women," said a French scientist, "should drink a good deal of lettuce juice."

For which kind of lettuce the American woman should thank the honest French. The facts are often found. Sometimes they are earned. Sometimes they are given. American women, however, American women, rather sensibly and rather fully, have found the lettuce juice for themselves. The lettuce juice is a most important vegetable in the first place, as it is declared, they were beautiful. Scientists attributed this fact to the lettuce and other vitamin-rich vegetables. "American women," said a French scientist, "should drink a good deal of lettuce juice."

THE CREAKING DOOR

The SEA BRIDE

THE ROMANCE OF AN EVENTFUL WHALING CRUISE

CHAPTER XXX
The whale surged past, and turned to charge again. This time, as it passed, Noll touched the creature with his lance, but the prick of it was no more than a dart in the neck of a fighting bull. It goaded the whale and nothing more. He charged with fury; his very fury was their safety.

Noll struck the whale at a little after nine o'clock in the morning. At noon the vast beast was still fighting, with no sign of weariness. It charged back and forth, back and forth; and the men swung the boat out of its way, and then muscles strained, their teeth ground together, the sweat poured from them with their efforts. They were intimated with the battle.

Noll, in the bow, bellowed and shouted his defiance, the men yelled at every stroke, they shook their fists at the whale as he raged past them. And Silva, astern, snatching them again and again from the jaws of destruction, grinned between tight lips, and plied his oar.

A little after noon the whale swung past Noll with such momentum that he was carried out to the rim of the circle in which the fight was staged, and saw Tichel's boat there. Any boat was fair game to the monster; and Tichel had grown careless with watching the breath-taking struggle. He had forgotten his own peril; he expected the whale to turn back on Noll again.

It did not, it went for him, and its jaws sheared through the very waist of his boat so that the two halves fell away on either side of the vast head. The men had time to jump clear; there was no man hurt—save for the strangling of the salt water—and the whale seemed to feel himself victorious for a lay, still as if to rest upon his laurels.

W. C. Cox was nearest; he drove his lance into the whale's side, and the whale fell away on either side of the vast head. The men had time to jump clear; there was no man hurt—save for the strangling of the salt water—and the whale seemed to feel himself victorious for a lay, still as if to rest upon his laurels.

The men had time to jump clear; there was no man hurt—save for the strangling of the salt water—and the whale seemed to feel himself victorious for a lay, still as if to rest upon his laurels.

the whale drove by, turned, saw no boat upon the water, thought victory was come.

Brander, at this time, was a quarter-mile away. When the boat went over he yelled to his men: "Pull! Oh, pull!"

They bent their stout oars with the first hot tug; fresh men, untired, hungry these hours past for a chance at the battle. Brander started toward where lay the capsize boat, the swimming men. Noll Wing lifted a commanding arm and beckoned him to make all speed.

A whale-boat is as speedy as any oared craft short of a racing-shell; and Brander's men knew their work. They cut across the vision of the boating whale, and the beast turned upon this new attacker with undiminished vigor.

Brander's eyes narrowed as he judged their distance from the drifting boat. He swerved a little to meet the coming whale-head-on. The whale plowed at him. They met fifty yards to one side of the spot where the boat was floating; and as they met, Brander dodged past the monster's very jaw and sidled astern of him. Before the whale could turn he was alongside the capsize boat, dragging Noll over his own gunwale.

He dragged Noll in; and he saw then that the captain held in his hand a loop of the line that was fast to the whale. Brander grinned with delighted appreciation. Noll straightened, brushed Brander back without regarding him, and passed the line to the men in Brander's boat.

"Haul in!" he roared. "Get that stowed aboard here. By God, we'll get that whale!"

They worked like mad, coiling the slack line in the waist, while Noll fitted it into the crotch and pinned it there. The whale was back at them by then; they dodged again. And this time as the creature swung past, Loum—Brander's boat-steerer—brought them in close against the monster's flank before dodging out to grade the smashing flukes. In that instant Noll saw his chance, and drove home his lance to his length.

It was the first wound the whale had taken—a wound not fatal, not even serious. Nevertheless, it seemed to take the fight out of the whale. He heaved for a moment, then heaved for a first time in more than five hours. Fighting to rest.

The line whirled out, stretched the crotch in the boat, the men leaped on to it, and as it went down as might be when Loum was steering past to keep them in the creature's track.

Noll, in the bow, was a man made of steel. His lance was thrust into the whale's side, and the whale fell away on either side of the vast head. The men had time to jump clear; there was no man hurt—save for the strangling of the salt water—and the whale seemed to feel himself victorious for a lay, still as if to rest upon his laurels.

Nature as a

Protector of Health

A Wholesomely Kept, Healthy

Body Is the Best Defense

Against Disease, Says

Authority.

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.

U. S. Senator from New York

Former Commissioner of Health

New York City.

NATURE defends the body in many mysterious ways.

Hippocrates said, "Nature is the curer of diseases." Since his day Science has done much to reveal some of the mysteries of the body and how to help the body overcome diseases. But even today our knowledge of the way in which the body

defends itself is only fragmentary.

Resistance to disease is a strange thing.

Individual resistance to disease differs widely.

There are those who go through a long life and seldom have a serious illness. Others pass from one infection to another.

The causes that are most likely to lessen one's resistance to infection are many. They include insufficient or unsuitable food, lack of proper sleep and rest, spending time in a vitiated atmosphere, exposure to wet and cold, fatigue, worry and excesses of every sort.

If your body is weakened by wrong living by any or all of those factors just named, then it is that the germs of disease gain the upper hand of Nature's defenses. Those who live wisely and harden their bodies by vigorous exercise are helping build up defenses. The body can then more readily destroy the millions of germs everywhere present.

Chilling of the body has various effects on the body. It may lead to colds, pneumonia and even greater harm.

Persons are much more susceptible to draughts if they are used to still warm air. Draughts are seldom noticed by persons in good physical tone. Those who are susceptible to them, elderly persons and infants must beware of them.

Another factor responsible for weakening naturally strong bodies is mistaken methods of feeding. The state of nutrition has a great deal to do with resistance to infection.

Infection by the germs of tuberculosis is widespread. But its activity in an individual is at most always due to lowered bodily resistance through impaired nutrition.

Self-poisoning from constipation is another alarming tendency among people of today and one which weakens the entire structure and all the organs of the body. It lowers man's efficiency tremendously.

Probably the greatest natural inhibitor of microbes in the world is the intestinal canal. It is said that from the alimentary tract thirty million bacteria are excreted daily in a normal healthy adult. The excretion of the body is not perfect

if the person with a naturally strong body made good by right living who has the power to resist disease is not able to do so.

Lettuce and Beauty

A FRENCH dietician who had been traveling in the United States said some pleasant things

recently about American women.

In the first place, she declared,

they were beautiful. She attributed this fact to their diet—lettuce and other vitamin-containing foods.

"American women," she said,

drink a good deal more orange and tomato juice than gin."

For which kind and true words

the American women ought to thank the honest French lady. Diet fads are often foolish. Sometimes they are carried to extremes that menace health. On the whole,

however, American women eat rather sensibly and provide healthful foods for their families.

Fruits, vegetables, dairy products, and—more important than it sounds—water, have become such commonplaces in the Ameri-

THE ROMANCE OF AN EVENTFUL
CRUISE

CHAPTER XXX

THE whale surged past, and turned to charge again. This time, as it passed, Noll touched the creature with his lance, but the prick of it was no more than a dart in the neck of a fighting bull. It goaded the whale, and nothing more. He charged with fury; his very fury was their safety.

Noll struck the whale at a little after nine o'clock in the morning. At noon the vast beast was still fighting, with no sign of weariness. It charged back and forth, back and forth; and the men swung the boat out of its way; and their muscles strained, their teeth ground together, the sweat poured from them with their efforts. They were intoxicated with the battle.

Noll, in the bow, bellowed and shouted his defiance; the men yelled at every stroke; they shook their fists at the whale as he raged past them. And Silva, astern, snatching them again and again from the jaws of destruction, grinned between tight lips, and plied his oar.

A little after noon the whale swung past Noll with such momentum that he was carried out to the rim of the circle in which the fight was staged, and saw Tichel's boat there. Any boat was fair game to the monster; and Tichel had grown careless with watching the breath-taking struggle. He had forgotten his own peril; he expected the whale to turn back on Noll again.

It did not; it went for him, and its jaws sheared through the very waist of his boat so that the two halves fell away on either side of the vast head. The men had time to jump clear; there was no man hurt—save for the strangling of the salt water—and the whale seemed to feel himself the victor, for he lay still, as if at rest upon his laurels.

Willis Cox was nearest; he drove his boat that way, and stood in the bow with lance in hand to strike. But Noll, hauling up desperately on the line, bellowed to him: "Let be, Willis! He's mine!" And Willis sheered off.

Then the whale felt the tug of the line and whirled once more to the battle. Willis picked up Tichel and his men, and towed the halves of the boat away back to the ship. The Sally was standing by, a mile from the battle. Such whales as this could sink the Sally herself with a battering blow in the flank. It was dangerous to come too near. Willis put Tichel and his men aboard, and went back to wait and be ready to answer any command from Noll.

The fifth hour of the battle was beginning. The whale was tireless. Noll, in the bow of his boat, seemed as untired as the beast he fought; but his men, even Silva, were wearying behind him.

It was this weariness that presently gave the whale his chance. He charged, and Silva's thrust on the long oar was a shade too late. The boat slipped out of reach of the crashing jaws; but the driving flukes caught it and it was overturned. The rear flew out.

Noll, in the bow, clung to the gunwale for an instant as the boat was overthrown—long enough to wrench out the pin that held the line in the crotch in the boat's bow. Silva, astern, would have cut; his hatchet was ready, but Noll shouted:

"No, by God! Let be!"

Then they were all in the water, tumbling in the surges thrown back by the passage of the monster. And the whale drove by, turned, saw it came in slowly, stubbornly; but no boat upon the water, thought victory was come.

Brander, at this time, was a quarter-mile away. When the boat went over he yelled to his men:

"Pull! Oh, pull!"

They bent their stout oars with the first hot tug; fresh men, untired, hungry these hours past for a chance at the battle. Brander started toward where lay the cap-sized boat, the swimming men. Noll Wing lifted a commanding arm and beckoned him to make all speed.

A whale-boat is as speedy as any oared craft short of a racing-shell; and Brander's men knew their work. They cut across the vision of the loafing whale; and the beast turned upon this new attacker with undiminished vigour.

Brander's eyes narrowed as he judged their distance from the drifting boat; he swerved a little to meet the coming whale-head-on. The whale plowed at him. They met fifty yards to one side of the spot where the boat was floating; and as they met, Brander dodged past the monster's very jaw and slid astern of him. Before the whale could turn he was alongside the cap-sized boat, dragging Noll over his own gunwale.

He dragged Noll in; and he saw then that the captain held in his hand a loop of the line that was fast to the whale. Brander grinned with delighted appreciation. Noll straightened, brushed Brander back without regarding him, and passed the line to the men in Brander's boat.

"Haul in!" he roared. "Get that stowed aboard here. By God, we'll get that whale!"

They worked like mad, coiling the slack line in the waist, while Noll fitted it into the crotch and pinned it there. The whale was back at them by then; they dodged again. And this time, as the creature swung past, Loum—Brander's boat-steerer—brought them in close against the monster's flank before dodging out to evade the smashing flukes. In that instant Noll saw his chance, and drove home his lance half its length.

It was the first wound the whale had taken—a wound not fatal, not even serious. Nevertheless, it seemed to take the fight out of the beast. He sulked for a moment, then began—for the first time in more than five hours' fighting—to run.

The line whipped out through the crotch in the bow; the men tailed on to it, and let it go as slowly as might be, while Loum swung the steering-oar, to keep them in the creature's track.

Noll, in the bow, was like a man glorified. His cap was pulled tight about his head; he had flung away his coat, and his shirt was open halfway to the waist. The spray lashed him; his wet garments clung to his great torso. His right hand held the lance, point upward, butt in the bottom of the boat; his left rested on the line that quivered to the tugging of the whale.

His knee was braced on the bow. A heroic figure, a figure of strength magnificent, he was like a statue as the whaleboat sliced the waves, and his lips smiled, and his eyes were keen and grim.

The line slipped out through the burning fingers of the men; the whale raced on. Abruptly Noll snapped off his shoulder:

"Haul in, Mr. Brander!"

Brander, at Noll's back, gave the word to the men, and they began to take back the line they had given the whale in the beginning.

It came in slowly, stubbornly; but no boat upon the water, thought victory was come.

They drew up on the whale that fled before them. They drew up till the smashing strokes of the flukes, as the creature swam, no more than cleared their bow. They drew up there, and sheered out under the thrust of Loum's long oar, and still drew on. They were abreast of the flukes; they swung in ahead of them; they slid, suddenly, against the whale's very side.

The end came with curious abruptness. The whale, at the touch of the boat against his side, rolled a little away from them so that his flank was half exposed. The "life" of a whale, that mass of centering blood-vessels which the lance might find, lies low. Noll knew where it lay; and as the whale thus rolled he saw his mark. He drove the lean lance hard—drove it so hard there was no time to pull it out for a second thrust—nor any need. It was snatched from his hands as the whale rolled back toward them.

Loum's oar swung; they loosed line and shot away at a tangent to the whale's course. "Let be, let be, men! He's done!" Noll cried exultantly, his hands flung high.

They saw, within a matter of seconds, that he was right. The whale stopped; he slowly turned; he lay quiet for an instant as if counting his hurts. The misty white of his spout was reddened by a crimson flood. It roared out of the spout-hole driven by the monster's panting breath. The whale turned slowly on his side a little, began to swim.

A trout, hooked through the head and thrown back into the pool, will sometimes race in desperate circles, battering helplessly against the bank, the bottom of the pool, the sunken logs. Thus this monstrous creature now swam in a circle that centered about the boat where Noll and the others watched; that tore the water and flung it on in them. Faster and faster, until it seemed his great heart must burst with his own labors. And at the end flung high clear of the water, threw his vast bulk forward, surged idly ahead, slowed and was still.

"Fin out, by God!" He's dead!" Noll cried.

A big whale, as big as most whalesmen ever see, the biggest Noll himself had ever slain. A fitting thing, for old Noll Wing had driven his last lance. He was tired; he showed it when Brander gave the whale to Willis for towing back to the ship, and raced for the Sally, with Noll panting in the bow.

The fire was dying in the captain's eyes; he pulled Brander's coat about his great shoulders and huddled into it. He scarcely moved when they reached the Sally. Brander helped him aboard.

"A great fight, sir," cried Dan Tobey. "Six hours and two stove boats. But you killed."

Noll wagged his old head, looked around for Faith and leaned heavily upon her arm.

"Take me down, Faith," he said. "Take me down. I am very tired."

One-Eyed Mauger sought out Brander three days later. That is to say, the little man made occasion, during the work of scrubbing up after Noll's last whale, to come to Brander's feet, and while he toiled at the planking of the deck there, he looked up at the fourth mate and nodded significantly.

Cattle Feeders Session Here Is Successful One

Fifty-two cattle feeders from Pickaway and adjoining counties attended the cattle feeders' school Tuesday which is conducted through the cooperation of the Pickaway Livestock Cooperative Association and the Animal Husbandry Department of the Ohio State University.

In opening the meeting, H. S. Lewis, county agent, stated that the purpose of the school was to discuss those problems confronting the prospective feeder of cattle and to assist him through an analysis, of the feeder and stocker situation, the comparative cost of different classes of feeder cattle and the price of feed which he had at his command to determine the course most economic in his individual situation.

L. P. McCann, beef cattle specialist of Ohio State University, discussed the cattle feeding situation of today as compared to one year ago. Mr. McCann stated that there is 1.7 percent less cattle on feed throughout the corn belt as a whole, while in Ohio there is over eight percent less cattle on feed than one year ago. McCann in summarizing the situation stated that for the man who definitely incorporates cattle feeding in his method of farming, there seems to be every reason for economic returns from the enterprise this winter and throughout the next ten to 12 months.

DISCUSS RANGE
Red Okerson of the Kansas City Producers discussed the situation existing on the range and of the type of cattle that are coming into the market. His advice was to buy as soon as the feeder is ready to provide a home for the cattle, stating that he did not look for much change in the feeder-stocker prices.

H. E. Crabbe of the F. E. Beery Company, St. Paul, Minn., reported very much the same situation from the northwest. Both men reported that range-men as a whole in the southwest and northwest are supported by good grace and are unwilling to sacrifice calves and will carry them over rather than make a sacrifice on them.

Edward C. Rector, president of the Pittsburgh Producers and director of the National Feeder Finance Corporation, explained the loan service which has been developed through the livestock cooperative agencies in conjunction with the intermediate credit banks. Feeders may obtain detailed information relative to this service through their county livestock cooperative association. Mr. Rector stated that over one-quarter of a million dollars was loaned on feeder cattle and feeder lambs last year through this service.

A summary of the information obtained through the discussions in the feeder school would indicate, first, that good to choice calves are the surest class of cattle to reflect profit; second, that good quality short yearlings should return a satisfactory margin; third, in some instances depending upon the feed available, the plan in between grades of stockers and feeders and she stuff may be handled economically; fourth, feeders who wish to realize profitable returns from their feeding operations should consider very carefully the purchases of commercial feeds; fifth, the most profitable ration has been proven to be the grains and roughages produced on the farm and supplemented by protein concentrates such as, cotton seed meal, linseed meal, and soy beans.

sixth, molasses is not an economic substitute for grain. From information available, due to feed shortages, matter of credit, and price of feeders, it seems that there will be a decrease in the number of cattle going on feed this winter.

The group of feeders attending this meeting, however, are consistent feeders of cattle and their feeding operations will not be altered materially.

MOONEY FIGHT IS AGAIN ON

INSIDE MOONEY FIGHT
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 11.—Impetus was added today to the fight of Tom Mooney and Warren K. Billings for freedom with the filing of an affidavit in the California supreme court by Dr. Howard G. Naffziger, brain specialist, characterizing John MacDonald as a "very sick individual" in 1916 when he was the government's star witness against Mooney and Billings in the preparedness day bombing trial.

In his affidavit, filed at the request of supreme court justices, Dr. Naffziger declares he operated on MacDonald twice and that the patient was a person "to whose opinion I could not personally lend any great weight."

MacDonald recently came here from Baltimore to "right a wrong" by refuting the testimony he gave in 1916 which largely was responsible for sending Mooney and Billings to prison for life.

FEATURES OF DAYTON TIRES

"The two outstanding features of Dayton Thorobred Tires responsible for their ever increasing popularity are high quality and low price," says Ben Gordon of the Gordon Tire and Accessory Co., local distributor.

"This rare combination is due to the high caliber of the personnel at the Dayton factory. A. L. Freedlander, vice president in charge of production, has for years been an expert on rubber, having passed on rubber standards for the government during the World War. It largely is due to his knowledge of rubber, supplemented by a corps of skilled engineers, that Dayton Thorobred tires have such remarkably high quality.

"The low price is due to Dayton's New Cost Plus Merchandising Plan, enabling us as direct factory distributors, to equip cars of Circleville and vicinity at the lowest prices in the history of the company. Thus it is a unique combination of rare manufacturing and merchandising skill which ultimately means so much to the individual car owner, who naturally is anxious to get superior tires at low cost.

"Those living in Circleville and vicinity are invited to stop in at 432 E. Mound-st to see the tires of the Gordon Tire and Accessory Co.

Don't you want this way of making the bowels behave? A doctor's way to make the bowels move so well that you feel better all over! Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin doesn't turn everything to water, but cleans out all that hard waste clogging your system. It cleans you out without any shock, for it's only fresh laxative herbs, a famous doctor found so good for the bowels, combined with pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients.

A doctor should know what is best for the bowels. Let Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin show you how soon you can train the bowels to move freely every day, the way they should. It's wonderful the way this prescription works, but it's perfectly harmless; so you can use it whenever a coated tongue or sick headache tells you that you're bilious. Fine for children, too (it tastes so nice) and they ought to have a spoonful the minute they seem fretful, feverish, or sluggish, or have a sallow look.

You can get the original prescription Dr. Caldwell wrote so many years ago; your druggist keeps it all ready in big bottles. Just ask for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and use it always for constipation.

FEATURES OF DAYTON TIRES

"The two outstanding features of Dayton Thorobred Tires responsible for their ever increasing popularity are high quality and low price," says Ben Gordon of the Gordon Tire and Accessory Co., local distributor.

"This rare combination is due to the high caliber of the personnel at the Dayton factory. A. L. Freedlander, vice president in charge of production, has for years been an expert on rubber, having passed on rubber standards for the government during the World War. It largely is due to his knowledge of rubber, supplemented by a corps of skilled engineers, that Dayton Thorobred tires have such remarkably high quality.

"The low price is due to Dayton's New Cost Plus Merchandising Plan, enabling us as direct factory distributors, to equip cars of Circleville and vicinity at the lowest prices in the history of the company. Thus it is a unique combination of rare manufacturing and merchandising skill which ultimately means so much to the individual car owner, who naturally is anxious to get superior tires at low cost.

"Those living in Circleville and vicinity are invited to stop in at 432 E. Mound-st to see the tires of the Gordon Tire and Accessory Co.,

recommends. "Of all the tires on the market, Dayton Thorobreds were singled out by us because of their splendid reputation in all parts of the country to furnish the maximum in Safety, Beauty, Long Life and Economy," says Mr. Gordon.

CAMELS

Easy to smoke

THERE'S always some favored one with a charm that's all her own. . . And everywhere in the modern scene you'll see happy smokers breaking out fresh, fragrant packs of Camels . . . a natural choice too!

For the mildness of Camels is a charm that's all its own . . . a natural mildness that's a quality of choicest tobaccos. Don't confuse this fresh, fragrant mildness with the flatness or insipidness of "over-treated" tobacco. There's a delightful natural fragrance to Camels, too, a "bouquet" as distinctive as the fragrance of oriental flowers.

Here's to the delightful things of life! Have a Camel!
